

I am totally against the easing of FCC regulations that would allow individuals/corporatists to own a higher percentage of television stations. Having different opinions presented to the public via our communication systems is of great importance for a free and diverse thinking society. This proposal is outrageous due to its potential for a one-sided press.